THE HARLEM BRIDGE ACCIDENT. WHAT THE CONTRACTOR SAYS-THE INJURED MEN RECOVERING.

Many persons visited yesterday the scene of Friday's accident at the bridge now building over the Harlem River at One-hundred-and-fifty-eighth st. One-hon varied as to the cause of the disaster the possible carelessness of the workmen handling the giracr and a faulty construction of the scaffolding were freely discussed. Contractor D. R. Kelly said that the accident was caused by an error of judgment on the part of the men in turning the girder over. He added, however, that the blocks on which the girder rested were coated with snow and ice, which made them slip out, and the men, being unable to hold the overhanging end, had to let it go. He did not think the presence of twenty men could have prevented the secident. Assistant Foreman Case had been with him thirteen years and was a careful and trustworthy man. The staging was put up again yesterday and work was geing on as usual. It would require half a day, Mr. Kelly said, to raise the girder, which was in the river, when it was desirable to put it in nosition. The bridge will be finished in the latter part of January.

He did not care to talk about the accident, he said, but remarked that it happened in a flash, and the first thing he knew he was thrown in the air. He got out of the water without difficulty, and would seen recover from his injuries. His feet and legs were bruised. It was stated at the Ninety-ninth Street Hospital that the patients were doing well, and would probably recover. The most scrious case was that of Frederick Gognia. No tracture of the skull had been found, but he was suffering somewhat from concussion of the brain. Assistant Foreman Case, who was badly bruised and whose right arm was broken, is doing picely, and Patrick Cavanagh, suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, will get well under careful treatment. Cavanagh, suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, will get well under careful treatment. Cavanagh sana that the accident was caused by a careless construction of the trestle. He had been apprehensive of danger, and his wife had advised him not to go to work Friday. Several other workmen were also afraid of the structure and expressed themselves to that effect. Superintendent Colourn said that assistant foreman Case had supervised the construction of the tristle, and as he was a competent man every precaution had undoubtedly been taken to make it safe.

There is a handsome row of stone-fronted buildings on the north side of Third-ave, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth-sts, the lower patts of which are occupied as stores, while the upper floors are used as flats. Each flat is divided into two parts by a central hall. The third floor is occupied by the families of Mrs. Sophia Falmay and Charles Tragan. Mrs. Falmay has lived there for a year, waite fragan only moved there from Newport two weeks ago, intending to make a permanent hone in this city. He did not find any employment, however, and determined to return to Newport. Friday he returned thither, leaving his child, nineteen months old, in the care of Mrs. Palmay, and his trunks and furniture in his apartments, intending to be away only a few days. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a young man calbed on Mrs. Palmay and asked her if she did not want to buy some coal, saying that he was an agent and was haking order. yesterday afternoon a young man cause of ans Palmay and asked her it she did not want to buy some coal, saying that he was an agent and was taking orders. She said no, and on his asking if the other launty on the floor did not want some, she told him that they were out of town for a few days. Half an hour later Mrs. Palmay went into Tragan's apartments to get some clothing for the child, and to her surprise found the door, which she had previously locked, open, while a bunch of skeleton keys hing from the keyhole. Within the toom she saw two men, one of whom was her late visitor, riding three trunks, which they had broken open with "jommies." On seeing her the men started to run out, and in so doing knocked Mrs. Palmay down. Before she could recover herself they had reached the street. The woman called stop time? A spirit of mischief induced two school girls, Friday afteracon, to throw a cat suffering from fits into the dry goods store of Jacob Hart, at Sixtiethst, and the Bodievard. The animal landed on the counter and ran widlly about the shop, upsetting boxes and creating confusion. Mr. Bart, a man nearly sixty years of age, picked up a yard stick, and attempted to drive the cat into the street. A lively chase cusued, in the course of which Policeman George A. Townsend, of the Twenty-second Precinct, chanced to pass the store, and, seeing Mr. Hart, stick in hand, running after the cat, arrested him on a charge of crucity to ajumals. Mr. Hart was taken to the Forty-seventh-street Police Station, and locked up in a cell all night. Yesterday he was arrangued before Justice Bixby in the York-ville Police Court, who, on hearing the circumstructures of the case promunity discharged hand. tille Palice Court, who, on hearing the circum stances of the case, promptly discharged him.

JERSEY CITY.

Peter Murray, an insane Irishman, living at No.
283 Eleventh-st., Jersey City, was probably fatally shot yesterday merning by Patrolman Mark Lawrence, of the Second Police Precinct of that city. At 2 a. m. Marray broke into the basement of the house of Anthony Duffy, No. 527 Monmouth-st. Lawrence, who was on duty near the house, heard the screams of Mrs. Duffy and ran to the stoop. He found Murray in the basement, breaking the windows with a chait. Murray, who was raving wildly, was clad only in his tronsers and shoes. Lawrence took him into enstedy on a charge of burglary made by Mr. Duffy. When Lawrence reached Monmouth and Ninth-sts, his prisoner asked him if he would obtain bail for him, and was assured that he would be treated right if he would go peaceably to the station. The answer ancered Murray, who said: "Let us see who is the best man." Murray then clinched with the offi er and knocked him down. An exciting and desperate fight followed for the possession of Lawrence's club. Murray succeeded in wrenching the club from the grasp of the officer and dealt him several heavy blows over the head. Lawrence managed to get upon his feet, after slipping upon the lice, when Murray felled him with a heavy blow on the side of his head. He jumped into the street, and Murray ran after him with uplifted club. Lawrence drew his revolver and warned him not to renew his attack with the club. In a swer Murray sprang upon him, when Lawrence, fearing for his life, shot him, Murray staggered to the curbsione and sat down. "It is just as well," he said with an oath, "that you shot me for I would have killed you if you badn't." JERSEY CITY.

and sat down. "It is just as well," he said with an oath, "that you shot me for I would have killed you if you hadn't."

Murray at once surrendered the club and Lawrence took him to the station. He was subsequently removed to St. Francis's Hospital. The ball struck him in the abdomen and passed through his body. It was found embedded under the skin in his back and was removed by the surgeon of the hospital. Lawrence surrendered himself to the sergeant at the Police Station, and was arraigned before Police Justice Peloubet and released on his own recognizance. The wound of Murray will probably prove fatal.

Chief of Police Murray said that he had no doubt but that Lawrence acted in self-defense, and Murray atterward told the Chief that he would certainly have killed the officer if the latter had not shot him. Murray was a suitor for the hand of Miss Mery McChe, a sister of Mr. Duffy's wie. The young woman refused to receive his attentions, and Mr. Duffy made him leave the house. This treatment affected his mind. Friday evening Murray visited St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, in Ninth-st., and began removing his clothing in the course of the services. The sexton of the church ejected him. Thursday morning he created a dismrbance in the First District Courtroom, and he was summarily put out by order of Justice Peloubet.

GOOD FRICES FOR BRIC-A-BRAC.

The second day's sale of the collection of bric-a-brac on exhibition at Schenek's Art Gallery, No. 37 Nassau-st., was attended by about 200 persons. The collection comprised Sevres porcelains, antique silver ornaments, Indian shawls, old laces, and wedgwood-ware. The prices were better than those of the first day's sale. Among the 127 lots which were offered for sale, the most noteworthy were the dress of a Chinese mandarin, which sold for $42.50; an antique Indian table cover, of camel's hair, embroidered with silk, $150; a tope made from the horn of a frinaceros, and supposed to be the work of the Boers, with elaborately carved stem and mouth-piece, $20; an antique Persian table cover, woven with gold, $29; an old smult-box of silver, bearing the miniature of Mrs. Fitzherbert, and once the property of George IV, $17; and a camel's hair shawl of Decca, cabroidered with silk, $40. A Bulgarian head-dress of silver seld for $47. A tapestry portiere, originally presented by George IV, to one of his conrtiers, bearing the royal arms in embroidery, and made by a special command of the King, was disposed of for $40. As no val mirror, with a woman and child painted on the reverse by Agneni, sold for $180. A set of a clock and two candellabras, Sevres porcelain in $ue our roi, brought $30. A cameo portrait of Pauline Bonaparte, Princess Borghese, by Nert, of Rome, in 1824, sold for $21. A carved horn bearing the mark of 1580, cut from solid ivory, and delicately carved, brought $31. An album of Indian photographs collected by the GOOD PRICES FOR BRIC-A-BRAC. Borghese, by Acri, or Rome, in 12-2, and a carved horn bearing the mark of 15-80, cut from solid ivory, and delicately carved, brought $181. An album of Indian photographs collected by the late Charles Matthews, in the tour of the Prince of Wales in India, and purchased at the sale of the actor's effects, brought $35. A Flemish deed of land from Maria Pheresa, showing the Austrian State seal of 17-80, was purchased for $21; and a dozen Dresden-handled dessert knives, with blades of solid silver, sold for $100.

The sales of yesterday reached the total of about $3,500. The intrinsic value of many of the antiques was large, as in the instance of an Indian bracelet studded with pearls and turquoise. A pair of wedgwood plaques with relievos after Flurman's designs prompted the very liberal hid of $320. The sale will be continued Monday.

STEAMERS STILL OVERDUE.

The steamships which are overdue were hourly expected yes; erday, but up to sundown not one of them had arrived. As delays of a number of days are not infrequent in the winter season, no alarm has as yet been telt for the safety of the vessels. The delay of the Algeria, which was due Wednesday, is attributed to westerly gales. At the office of the Hamburg line, the failure of the Silesia to arrive was attributed to the same cause. At the office of the French line it was denied yesterday that the Ville de Marseilles was overdue. As it is a very slow vessel and did not leave Havre until November 17, it is not expected to arrive until to-day. Besides the Silesia and Algeria, the Nevada was also due Tuesday or Wednesday; the Jan Breidel from Antwerp, the State of Indiana from Glasgow and the Rhynland were due Wednesday; the Holland and Victoria from Sweden were due Thursday; the City of Berlin, the Cambria and the Bath City were due yesterday. From Southern ports the Santiago was due Wednesday, the Lone Star Friday and the Colorado yesterday. The steamships which are overdue were hourly Colorado yesterday.

Long Island City was incorporated in 1870. It has at this time a floating debt of about $100,000, and a funded debt of $1,000,000. The city does not own a building, but rents such as are needed for police-stations, engine-houses, schools, city hall, and count-rooms. Notwithstanding the city's heavy debt, with the exception of the First Ward, streets have not been paved, sewered, or guttered, and are in a wretched condition. The improvement district embraces the First Ward, and the commission has expended about $2,000,000, which falls due twenty years from now. The commission will epend another half million dollars before closing his work. The yearly expenses of the city government are $173,800-$10,000 more than it costs for the government of the County of Queens, with its debt of halt a million and a population of over 50,000. FATAL RESULT OF A FIRE IN GRAND-STREET.

Fire broke out in the house No. 154 Grand-st. yesserlay morning at 6 o'clock while most of the occupation were yet asleep. The house is two stories in height, and in the upper story and the attic Daniel Davis and his wife keep boarders. On the ground floor is a printing-office kept by John O'Donnell, and J. W. S. Cook's brass-finishing shop. Wilson & The impson's restautant is in the basement. The fire had its erigin in some unknown menner in the brass-finishing shop, and a thick smoke, that rolled up the stairway and filled the house, gave the first warning of the danger. A scene of terror ensued among those who sleep ton the upper floors. The thickness of the smoke caused the danger to be exaggerated greatly, and deterred them from venturing out upon the stairs. Mary Hawks, one of the boarders, threw her nine-years-old child out of a second-story window and sprang after it herself. The child was caught in its descent and was not unjured at all; the mother escaped with a slight cut of the left hand. The firemen, who had go to work, soon put out the fire. Then it was discovered that a young man had been sufficeated in his bed in a hall-room on the second floor. His name was James Henry De Witt, age twenty-seven. He was a conductor on the Long Island Raifroad, and was on a visit to his aunt, Mrs. Davis. He had evidently not been aroused by the cries of alarm. He was alive when found by the fremen, but died shortly after.

The house was damaged $300, and the brass-finishing shop $250; the rest of the house was deluged by water. FATAL RESULT OF A FIRE IN GRAND-STREET. A FAST MAIL FOR THE SOUTH.

The train will leave Jersey City at 4:30 a.m., will be due at Washington at 10:50 a.m., and at Richmond at 2:30 p. m. There it will be divided, that portion for New-Orleans going by the Piedmont Air Line. It will arrive at Adanta, Ga., at 9:30 a. m., on Moe day, and will reach New-Orleans Inesday at 9:25 a. m. This train at 12:25 on Monday will overtake at Charlotte, N. C., the train which left New-York at 10 clock last night. The mail southward by way of the coast-line route will leave Richmond at 2:35 p. m., and will arrive at Williams on at 10:10 p. m. Sunday, tharleston 6:40 a. m. Monday, and Savannah at 3:45 p. m. on the same day, and will there make connection southward to Florida.

The new arrangement practically saves a day's time between this city and New-Orleans and Savannah, and will place the New-York morning papers in Richmond at 2:50 p. m. on the day of publication, instead of at 10:15 p. m. as formerly. A similar saving of time is made on the transmission of mails from the South to the North, but there will be no change in the arrival of trans in this city, as the saving is made at the other end of the line.

AN EVENTFUL DAY FOR MR. MOHN.

Andreas Mohn, the German sailor who was ar rested in Hoboken, N. J., on a charge of having deserted from the steamship Gellert, was taken before Justice Dixon, of the Supreme Court, yesterday, at his house. After nearing a short argument, Justice Dixon issued an order releasing Mohn from the county jail on the ground that there were no the county iad on the ground that there were no smilicient reasons for his arrest or his further detention. Mohn was immediately arrested by Constable Zimmerman on the charge of betrayal under promise of marriage, made by Mrs. Ida Metz. The prisoner was taken to Hoboken, where he was warmly met by the young widow. The couple went to the house of Justice Streng, when Mrs. Metz formally withdrew her charge. Mohn and Mrs. Metz were married, and started for the West last evening on their wedding trip.
